Government Ready To Take Over Big Airplane Factory

Strikers Given Until Monday to Return to Their Jobs

Washington, June 7—(AP)—The White House announced today that President Roosevelt would order the taking over by the government of the strike-bound North American Aviation plant at Inglewood, Calif., if the strikers have not agreed among themselves to return to work Monday.

Stephen T. Early, White House press secretary, told reporters the necessary papers were ready for signature for the army to take over the plant and operate it and that the cabinet had unanimously approved such a step late yesterday.

Early said the president had decided to await the outcome of a meeting of the CIO union at the plant tomorrow before putting the order into effect.

The president will leave today on a week-end cruise, returning tomorrow evening or Monday morning.

Early said unless the workers decide by then to return to work the president will sign the order.

Not a Threat

Early said the president's action was not a threat or a big stick to be held over the heads of the workers because he hoped they would settle the dispute peacefully and in orderly fashion themselves.

Early said the president also had requested Harvey W. Brown, head of the International Machinists Union, to come to Washington and confer with him regarding the machinists' strike in the San Francisco shipyards which also has been holding up major defense work.

All other trades are back to work in those shipyards, Early said.

Asked about the third major strike on the west coast, that of lumber workers, Early said there was "no real shortage of lumber now and if the strike holds up production in the northwest other producing areas would take care of the shortage."

If Roosevelt finds it necessary to take the step, it will have been the first such crackdown on work stoppages in essential industries since the defense emergency started.

All Operations Stopped

North American holds orders for $196,000,000 worth of bombers and other types of combat planes for the United States and Britain. A strike was called there by the C. I. O.-United Automobile Workers and started Thursday morning in the midst of the defense mission board's efforts to prevent it.

All operations of the company's 11,500 employees were stopped.

Should it become necessary for the government to take over the plant, Early said, the army of course would give the workers the right to return to work. He added he did not believe the army would let picket lines stop return of the men.

The union called the strike to enforce its demands for a union shop, a general wage increase of 10 cents an hour and an increase from 50 to 75 cents an hour in the minimum wage rate.

Postponed Twice

At requests of the mediation board the walkout was postponed twice. Then as the board sought to perfect some temporary working agreement pending a final settlement, it was made effective.

Word spread last night that Roosevelt was contemplating the course announced and early this morning the comment on the report by Bill Backman, member of the C. I. O. negotiating committee, was:

"We will not go back to work today. The strike will continue."

Through its labor policy advisory committee, the Office of Production Management late yesterday "condemned and denounced" the strike along with the other two west coast stoppages. It also called on "public spirited" labor officials and members of the striking unions to take action to get the operations started again.

Shortage of Planes

The reason for the possible drastic action, Early explained, was the fact that there is an actual shortage of planes and "planes are so badly needed for defense."

Federal action in other strikes, he added, would depend upon "how badly needed" are the products involved.

Early said the order drawn by the president was prepared under the president's powers as commander in chief in the proclaimed unlimited emergency.

The president, he continued, had

Batavia, Ill., June 7—(AP)—Six girls have made it impossible for Batavia high school's senior class to have a valedictorian.

The girls never received any grades but "A" in their four years, so school authorities were unable to arrange six valedictory addresses, compromised the problem by naming none.

The girls are Betty Jean Ander, Marion Anderson, Phyllis Benson, Jane Johnson, Gisela Miller and Betty Lou Pingree.

Three Navy Fliers Perish in 'Chute Leap After Crash

San Diego, Calif., June 7—(AP)—Three navy fliers perished and a fourth suffered serious injuries in a parachute leap after two planes from the heavy cruiser Chester collided in mid-air over the ocean in the San Clemente island area.

The accident occurred late Thursday during a routine flight while the cruiser was 60 miles at sea. A communication received by the district office, however, said the "planes came down to earth near a cove."

The dead:

Ensign Thomas H. Tepuni, 27, San Francisco, pilot of one of the planes, apparently torpedo bombers.

Paul Justin Burroughs, 20, radioman third class, Albion, Iowa.

Otto Henry Wilkennig, 25, radioman first class, Nebraska (city unavailable).

Ensign Jack Russell Egan, Port Orchard, bailed out after the collision.

The accident was the second involving aircraft in this area this week. On Monday a giant four-motored Consolidated Liberator bomber, built for Great Britain, crashed into San Diego Bay, resulting in the death of five aviation experts.

Hints of sabotage are being investigated by the FBI and other agencies.

Green Asks Approval of 11 State Armories

Springfield, Ill., June 7—(AP)—The endorsement by state WPA Administrator Howard Drew of a $1,100,000 project to aid in the building of 11 armories in Illinois for National Guard troops and reserve militia units was asked yesterday by Governor Green.

The WPA, under the law, is limited to a maximum of $100,000 on each project and Drew said that he would advise the governor within a short time as to the amount the federal government agency could make to the defense projects.

Should the WPA funds be obtained, Governor Green said, the state planned to issue bonds to raise the sponsor's share of the construction cost. The bonds would be retired over a 24 year period with funds now used for rentals of privately owned buildings.

New armories are planned in Alton, Bloomington, East St. Louis, Galva, Joliet, Macomb, Moline, Paris, Springfield and Sterling, and replacement of the 131st infantry armory in Chicago.

Costly Restraint

New Rochelle, N. Y., June 7—(AP)—While Frank Viscio restrained firemen from smashing a glass door to get into his blazing drug store, flames did $8,000 worth of damage.

Arrested on a disorderly conduct charge, Viscio explained:

"I just didn't want my door broken, fire or no fire."

$30 Minimum Old Age Pension Bill Among Several Doomed to Quick End

Springfield, Ill., June 7—(AP)—Minimum old age assistance of $30 monthly for Illinois aged was one of the several legislative proposals which appeared today to be heading for quiet burial in the closing weeks of the general assembly's regular session.

Both branches of the legislature voted overwhelmingly in favor of the $30 minimum early in the session, but each house passed its own bill and then proceeded to allow the legislation to lie untouched on the senate and house calendars.

Sponsors of the two bills, Senator Charles H. Thompson and Rep. Oral P. Tuttle, both Republicans of Harrisburg, indicated they do not now expect them to pass this session.

The death of the bills has resulted, they said, from the strong likelihood that federal assistance would be withdrawn from Illinois because existing federal law requires old age assistance to be

Dog Leads Youth Through College To His Diploma

Young Blind Student To Be Graduated With Honors

Champaign, Ill., June 7—(AP)—When 27-year-old Arthur W. Lehde steps up to receive his bachelor of arts degree from the University of Illinois Monday, a white and tan bird dog, Peggy Lou, will lead him—just as she has during his entire college career.

Lehde, whose home is in Beaucoup, Ill., is blind, but with Peggy Lou's help he has marked up one of the most brilliant academic records of this year's class.

He has completed a regular four-year course in the college of liberal arts and sciences in three and one-half years, with an average grade of 4.5—only half a point below a perfect score. In the semester just ended, he achieved the unusual—a straight "A" in all subjects. He is to be graduated with high honors.

Now that he has finished with school, he and the girl he met and married at the state university plan to return to Beaucoup, where he hopes to begin realizing his ambition to be a newspaper feature writer.

Few stories that ambition may lead him to write likely will equal the story of himself and the ever-watchful Peggy Lou.

Was an Athlete

Lehde was graduated from Nashville, Ill., high school in 1931. There he had played basketball and football and had been captain of the track team.

In July 1935 he bought a six-weeks old pup, named her Peggy Lou, and hunted with her that fall just as any normal boy and dog. In March of the following year, injuries from an automobile left him blind.

After several months in the hospital, he returned to his home, and he and a five-year-old neighbor boy began teaching Peggy Lou to lead—not much training as compared with that usually given to dogs entrusted with hu-

Faces Charges of Drunken Driving

Three cars were damaged in a crash at 12:30 o'clock this morning on Galena avenue between Third and Fourth street, and Allen Taylor of this city was arrested by Sergeant Edward Mahan of the state police force and Merchant Officer J. E. McIntire. Taylor was taken to the police station where his injuries, which consisted of cuts about the face, were dressed and he was held while the collision was further investigated.

Two of the cars belonged to tourists who spent the night at the D. L. Heagy tourist home. A machine belonging to Mr. and Mrs. Robert Hall of San Diego, Cal., was considerably damaged, both the front and rear of the car being crushed.

According to Sergeant Mahan, Taylor was driving south on Galena avenue when he struck the Hall machine, which was forced ahead and crashed into another car belonging to Ernest Bergeson of Belvidere, who spent the night at the Heagy home, damaging all three machines. An information charging Taylor with the operation of a motor vehicle while in an intoxicated condition was filed in Lee County court before Judge Grover Gehant this morning, where the Dixon man was to be arraigned later in the day.

Doctors Propose All Liquors Be Labelled Poison

Cleveland, June 7—(AP)—Three Boston physicians appealed today to the American Medical Association to endorse a proposal to have all liquor labeled as poison.

Declaring that they were not prohibitionists, but "regard prohibition as a failure," Dr. Merrill Moore, Dr. Leo Alexander and Dr. Abraham Myerson said they believed every man and woman who imbibes any amount of alcohol should be warned by the label on the bottle that what they are drinking is dangerous, if taken in too large amounts and at too frequent intervals.

"Arsenic, carbolic acid and other poisons are labeled under the regulations of the federal food and drug administration," Dr. Moore said, "and alcohol should be designated in the same way."

"There is no question but that the most important and widely-used habit-forming drug of western civilization and certainly of America is alcohol," he continued. The sum total of deaths and mental wreckage from the use of narcotics is far greater than from any other toxic substance and if the federal food, drug and cosmetic act is designed to prevent and to protect the American public and its health from the menace of drug intoxication and addiction, then it should apply to alcohol instead of neglecting it altogether."

He reported that he had received hearty support for the idea from many of the large liquor companies.

The Boston physicians suggested that every bottle of liquor carry a label reading: "Use moderately and not on successive days. Eat well while drinking and, if necessary, supplement food by vitamin tablets while drinking. Warning: May be habit-forming, not for use by children. If used immediately it may cause intoxication, neuralgia, paralysis, mental derangement and kidney and liver damage."

Defeated France Torn by Conflict of Faiths as Vise Squeezes Her

The War Today!

(Telegraph Special Service)
(This daily feature, conducted by DeWitt MacKenzie, is being written in his absence on vacation by Fred Vanderschmidt.)

A false twilight has dimmed the war, a phase of the conflict arranged by Adolf Hitler; a period, probably of moderate duration, in which the people whom Hitler has conquered by war or friendship will do most of the fighting.

Every recent utterance of nazi spokesmen shows that the French are expected to do the preliminary shooting and getting shot in Syria if the British armies march in. These Frenchmen will have considerable German air support and, for the time being, limited aid of other sorts.

The Italians will be expected to expend their planes and pilots in the western Mediterranean as well as in Syria, and they already have begun to do so.

The German attitude that Syria is France's affair and for France to defend with Hitler applying large injections of benevolence, is of course a contradiction of the often-stated German policy of striking the British wherever they can be found. That is mere expediency, however.

The truth is that Hitler needs this zone of false twilight for the physical and spiritual consolidation of his main forces and for digging out the prospects of imposing a conqueror's terms of peace on Britain before the year is over.

In spite of all appearances, Hitler is no genie who can transport tens of thousands of men and their supplies from one war-trampled front to another by rubbing a lamp. Nor is the German soldier a superman—he is a common-place family fellow, distinguished largely by his complete obedience, who has been away from home a long time and wants to go back.

Now the Balkan railroads are groaning again under the weight of this mass of hob-nailed men, and, while some of them are traveling by devious ways to the next front, others undoubtedly are going home for a little while on leave. This, for morale, is essential; if there is any one thing which has impressed objective observers with the German troops in the most recent campaigns, it is that they are, to paraphrase the British Timmy, "fed up and far from 'one'—just plain homesick."

The non-military side of the twilight zone is reflected in the current peace whispers. President Roosevelt has vehemently accused the Germans of planting rumors that Britain is all in and about ready to sue for peace and has stated that so far as the British go there is not "even a tenth cousin of a peace offer or anything like that or any discussion of peace."

The implication is that Hitler is trying to discourage American aid to Britain and is endeavoring to increase the discontent of the British people with their government's conduct of the war, now that Crete has been so tragically lost.

There is excellent ground for suspecting the presence of a trial peace balloon, made not in London but in Berlin. At no other time in the war has there been a more advantageous moment than this for Hitler to try to get the people on the other side to listen to his own ideas for peace. It is a move.

British Sure Suez Cannot Be Taken

Washington, June 7.—(AP)—Ambassador John G. Winant was understood today to have told Vice President Wallace and other senate leaders that the British were confident they could hold the Suez canal and prevent the Mediterranean from falling under German control.

The ambassador to Great Britain was closeted with the vice president and senators for more than two hours yesterday. It was said authoritatively that he set forth a more encouraging report of British morale and chances of winning the war than some of his hearers had expected.

Wallace arranged for the meeting at the suggestion of Winant. Besides the vice president, those present were Chairman George (D-Ga.) of the senate foreign relations committee, Senators Byrnes (D-Sc.) and Connally (D-Tex.), members of the committee, and Senator Hill (D-Ala.), the majority whip.

Stormy Meeting of French Cabinet Held Friday

By The Associated Press

Torn by a conflict of faiths—one in an old ally and the other in a new order—the empire of defeated France was squeezed tighter today in the British-Axis vise.

Britain's main hope of clinging to her eastern Mediterranean bastions, her troop emplacements in the Bible lands, the naval strong-points of Alexandria and Cyprus and the Suez canal itself seemed more and more to depend on the French.

The British found hope today in a press dispatch from Zurich, Switzerland, quoting a French diplomatic source as saying that Generalissimo Maxime Weygand, commander of France's colonial forces, could not guarantee the attitude of his men in North Africa if they were called on to fight the pro-British "Free French" forces of General Charles DeGaulle.

Moreover, according to Exchange Telegraph, the British news agency which carried this report, its source said Weygand at his own insistence had been relieved of responsibility for the conduct of French troops in Syria.

These things, according to this report, transpired—presumably yesterday at Vichy—in a stormy meeting between Weygand and Vichy's anti-British, pro-collaboration vice-premier, Admiral Jean Darlan.

At Mercy of Blockade

Commercial sources at Damascus said that Egypt's recent prohibition of trade with Syria—in accord with Britain's declaration that the French mandate is "enemy occupied"—had put Syria at the mercy of the British blockade.

The latest of the varied reports of German infiltration was that eight German "pocket" submarines had been seen in the harbor of Beirut, Lebanon, in the past week.

This came from Ankara, Turkey, by way of Reuters, British news agency, and if true, may indicate German plans to blast a sea pathway for troops transports through British naval interference.

Vichy authorities, flatly denying reports that German troops are moving into Syria, one of two pathways to Suez, have called on loyal forces there for an unbudging defense of Syria against any British occupation attempt. If the British go in, as they have hinted they will, their ranks are likely to include Free French forces now stationed in Palestine.

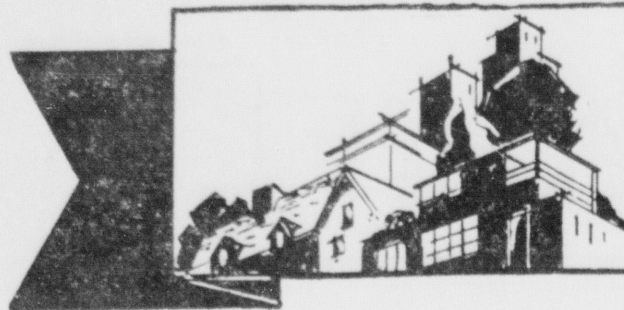

Each Belligerent Waiting

As though each belligerent were waiting for the other to knock the Syrian chip from his shoulder, meanwhile girding against the day, Germany, Italy and Britain fanned the war in other sectors.

Italian planes last night bombed Britain's mid-Mediterranean base of Malta and lashed at Britain's stubborn Tobruk foothold in Libya and troop emplacements near Sidi Barrani, Egypt, guarding the western flank of Suez.

MODERNIZATION

Built-In Mirrors

By Paul T. Haagen
It was just a few years ago that the lavish use of mirrors was prohibited by their costliness in all except the very large and expensive homes. But today mirrors are being used more and more as a decorative feature in the smaller home. Mirrors cause the room to appear larger and more spacious, the reflection of the furniture and other features of the room is very pleasing in its effect and they certainly add a very attractive note to most any room.

Mirrors may be placed to advantage over a fireplace or across the center portion of a wall, or they may be placed in the space between windows or doors. When placed across the wall, it is best to put them at the narrow part of the room so as to get the maximum benefit from the apparent enlargement of the space.

Mirrors are made in several colors, the most popular being amber, blue, peach or violet. One of these colors will tone in with almost any decorative scheme you might have.

When placed against the wall, the glass should have a backing of wood to which it is attached. Mirrors may be scored or divided into a design with a V-groove or in rectangular patterns to match the size of the window panes of the room. This makes a very pleasing effect.

One place in the house where a mirror is most useful is in the bedroom. A full-length mirror is very practical and desirable. It may be placed in a new or old house. It may be hung on the bedroom door or, if space and plan of the room permits between two windows where there will be ample light. If placed on the closet door, it may be hung on the inside of the door if you feel you do not wish it on the exterior.

When building a new chimney, by all means use a flue liner. It gives a better form of construction and reduces the fire hazard.

Modern Kitchens

By Paul T. Haagen

Probably no two rooms in small homes today are more modern than the kitchen and the bathroom. The kitchen is a laboratory for the preparation of foods; it therefore must be sanitary, light and bright. Color is being introduced into the kitchen so that it has not only the appearance of cleanliness as in former days but rather has become gay with color and very attractive as well as practical.

Kitchens nowadays are standardized in a certain sense. That is, there are certain basic plans for good working arrangements that will fit into almost any house—certain standard units such as counters, broom closets, sink tops, etc., which are installed in the kitchen. Cases and cupboards are also uniform and the counter tops, with linoleum covering and with chromium moldings at the edge, are quite practical and efficient.

Illumination is an important matter in the kitchen. There should be a ceiling light for general diffusion, a light over the sink, one at the range and possibly one under the cabinets which would throw the light on to the working counter space.

In planning your kitchen, be sure that there are enough plug outlets, especially for the range, the refrigerator and the mixing appliances.

Plaster Cracks Often Occur Basement or Utility Room?

Dear Mr. Haagen: About one year ago we built our new house and lately we have been noticing cracks appearing in the plastered ceilings and are very unsightly. What can be done about this?—G. R. T.

Answer: That is an old story that occurs very regularly. There are many reasons for cracking plaster but I suppose the most common cause is the drying out of the framing lumber which pulls away from the lath and plaster and causes the same to crack. Many times, as a building is constructed lumber which has been kiln-dried becomes soaked from rains. After the heat gets into the building, this continues to dry for about a year or two and then the cracking of plaster takes place.

I suggest that nothing be done for at least two years after the house has been built. This will give the structural framing enough time to thoroughly dry out. After you are sure that the frame has dried thoroughly, call in a good painter and have him cut out the cracks back to the lath so that these cracks will have a V shaped section. Then fill the cracks with patching plaster or Swedish putty and redecorate.

If the plaster is loose in large spots, the only thing to do is to cut out the loose plaster and replaster. If plaster cracks are very bad, the ceilings or walls may have to be canvassed with painters canvass and then redecorated.

HOW ABOUT YOUR HOME?

THE TREND TO GLASS

Dear Mr. Haagen: We have noticed in so many of the magazines during the past few months that glass and glass blocks are being used more in houses than in past years. Will you tell us something about the advantages of each.

MRS. R. F. W.
Yes, the tendency is to build with large glass areas in the window openings in the modern small house because folks find that air, sunshine, light and ventilation are needed in their homes. Not only does the larger window offer more light but it also offers more view and it is an unusual house that cannot boast of at least one pleasant vista in to a garden, a back yard or across the street toward one's neighbor's house.

Glass is being used more widely today for, with the rapid improvement in automatic heating plants, the heat loss in winter through the glass may be more quickly overcome. Glass blocks are very decorative and permit the light to filter through the blocks. They do not allow of any view; you cannot see through them. They are fine for a wall where vistas are not wanted but where light is important.

Where large glass surfaces are used in a house, heat losses are usual. Therefore in a very cold climate the heat losses may be costly. Storm sash overcomes much of the heat loss.

Question: What should we do to get a pickled pine finish on new pine wood for color and how should it be applied? Most painters I have consulted do not understand how this finish is obtained.

A. M. L.
(Answer) There are several different ways of producing a pickled pine finish. One of the best ways is to bleach the pine first with oxalic acid dissolved in alcohol or preferably with one of the ready-made bleaches. Rinse the wood after bleaching; rinse after bleaching with acid is necessary. Then apply one or two thin coats of white shellac and sandpaper the surface and glaze with a white glazing coat, titanium base. Wipe the surface and finish with a very pale varnish or colorless flat lacquer.

Kreim Remodeling Donahue Building

Remodeling is under way on the Donahue building on Galena Avenue to accommodate the planned expansion of the Frank H. Kreim Furniture Store.

The building, north of the present Kreim Furniture Store, formerly occupied by Staples mortuary, was recently purchased by Frank H. Kreim to materialize his plans for consolidating his present display room and his store room with this structure, making all three floors in a single unit, to give him a modern up-to-date furniture market.

Many alterations are planned for the added store room, providing for a new and modern front, a general renovation and redecoration of the interior and exterior to conform to the present store room.

With additional floor space all departments will be modernized and new facilities used to feature group displays along with a special department of children's furniture.

As many other local business men have done in the past, Mr. Kreim came to Home Lumber for his building supplies. George Christianson, Dixon, is the contractor on the job.

You Ought to See Our Color Choice

A certain manufacturer of nail lacquer comes out with this choice collection of color names—jade pink, joss house, temple fire, lotus blossom, flowering almond, weeping willow, opium poppy, celestial pink, flowering plum, blue moss and dragon's blood.

They had us stopped for a minute and we thought the lumbering business might be becoming a bit dull. But then we got to thinking of our own stock and dug up these "rain-bowish" names—in Lucas paint. Jade Green, Narcissus Yellow, Jonquil Yellow, Dreaden Blue, Moss Green, a married man's; and in MULE-HIDE Roofs—Marine Blue, Fiesta Blend, Campfire Red and Forest Brown.

It sure is a colorful world and we're all set to help you make your home colorful! You should see our color books with all their practical suggestions today!

KEG O NAILS

I WONDER! Wonder why nobody ever gets married at low noon or just plain noon.

I STILL WONDER! "I see where a Virginia man has succeeded in crossing a cabbage with an onion."

"I wonder what they'll name the cigar?"

BIG ORDER Six-foot-three Soldier: "Shine, boy."

Shine Boy (looking at the vast expanse of boots before him): "Here Bert, give me a hand. I've got an army contract!"

SOME DIFFERENCE The difference between a bachelor and a married man is that when a bachelor walks the floor with a baby he's dancing.

FARE SCOTCH! A Scot was engaged in an argument with a conductor as to whether the fare was 25 or 30 cents. Finally the disgruntled conductor picked up the Scot's suit case and tossed it off the train as they passed over a bridge.

"Mon!" screamed the Scot. "It isn't enough to try to overcharge me, but now you try to drown my little boy!"

Ekstrom-Swan Bridal Is to Be Solemnized Today

When she becomes the bride of Howard Herbert Ekstrom in a home wedding this afternoon, Miss Emily June Swan will be carrying the linen and lace handkerchief that her mother carried as a bride in Madison, Wis., 26 years ago today.

The E. J. Swans' residence at 214 Morgan street will be the setting, when Dr. L. W. Walter, pastor of St. Paul's Lutheran church, hears the Swans' only daughter and the only son of Mr. and Mrs. Gustav H. Ekstrom of 802 Lundvall avenue, Rockford, repeat their bridal vows at 4 o'clock.

Marquiesette and Pearls

Fashioned on simple lines, the white marquiesette bridal gown that Emily will wear is designed with long, full sleeves, and full skirt. Seed pearls form the wide girdle, and trim the boat-shape neckline. A tiara of seed pearls will hold her halo veil of tulle to her coiffure, and her only jewelry will be a single strand of pearls.

In the bride's cascade bouquet will be white camellias, encircled by stephanotis and pale blue forget-me-nots, with florets knotted in the white satin ribbons. Mr. Swan will give his daughter in marriage.

Miss Jean Bovey is to be Miss Swan's only attendant. Her yellow marquiesette gown is trimmed with tiny bows from the scalloped neckline to the floor-length hemline. Her Dutch cap matches her gown, and in her colonial bouquet will be yellow daisies, edged with blue delphinium florets.

Ragnar Erikson is to be Mr. Ekstrom's best man.

Light blue will be worn by both Mrs. Swan and Miss Ekstrom. Johanna Hill roses will form their shoulder bouquets.

The service will be read before two windows at the east end of the living room, where white candles in seven-branched will flank an improvised altar of white gladioli and larkspur in tall white floor baskets.

Miss Naomi Wolf will be pianist for the nuptial prelude. Her recital will include Tchaikovsky's "Antarctic Cantabile," a Beethoven Adagio, and the traditional wedding march from Wagner's "Lohengrin."

A reception for about 70 guests from Illinois, Michigan and Wisconsin will follow the ceremony. Coffee and punch will be served at one table, appointed with white roses and lighted tapers, and on another table will be a three-tiered wedding cake, encircled by yellow and white daisies. Mrs. R. C. Bovey and Mrs. S. M. Mottar will preside at the refreshment table.

Immediately after the reception, Mr. Ekstrom and his bride will leave for the east. They expect to spend the week end of June 11 with John Hassinger in Point Pleasant, N. J., and after June 16 will be at home at Pine Orchard, near New Haven, Conn. For traveling, today's bride has selected a blue tailored suit, with a wide-brimmed hat of yellow straw, and yellow accessories.

Miss Swan was graduated from the Dixon high school in 1936, and later attended Lawrence college in Appleton, Wis. Until her recent resignation, she was employed in the billing department of the Illinois Northern Utilities company. Mr. Ekstrom was graduated from the Rockford high school, formerly attended the University of Illinois, and is now eastern representative for the pump division of the Sundstrand Machine Tool company, with headquarters at Hartford.

Ogle County's Only Civil War Veteran Nears Century Mark; Recalls Past Events

By LOIS J. STIMELING

"I don't know as I can explain it, but I'm having the best time I ever had." That's the way that Charles Nelson Wilmarth—believed to be Ogle county's only survivor of the Civil War—describes his feelings as he nears his one-hundredth birthday anniversary.

Mr. Wilmarth will celebrate his anniversary on Tuesday, June 17, at the home of his son and daughter-in-law, the Earl A. Wilmarths, north of Oregon. It's not going to be a quietly-observed anniversary either; there's going to be a party, friends calling, a cake and everything.

"I'm wondering if I'll live to be 100," the white-haired, kindly-faced man mused, when interviewed recently by a Telegraph reporter. Then for half an hour or so, he chatted about events of the past—events which took his listener to the veteran's childhood home in the east, to the deep south where blue-and-gray hosts of the Civil war stirred in their bivouacs during the conflict between states, and finally to a discussion of present-day happenings.

The conversation was interrupted frequently for answers to questions put to both the interviewer and the veteran by the near-century-old man's affectionate little great-granddaughter, Lonjeana Gunn of Huntington Park, Calif., whose presence at the Wilmarth home is an unfailing source of pride and joy for her adoring relative, Lonjeana, not yet three, reached Oregon several weeks ago, and is the veteran's constant companion.

He calls her "little sweetheart," explaining, "she's my last sweetheart." "It cost me $100 to get her here but it was worth it," he declares. (The Gunns went west last fall, and early in April, the aged man became so lonely for "little sweetheart" that he asked his granddaughter, Miss Marian Wilmarth, to go west for the attractive little girl.)

Born in East

Mr. Wilmarth was a twin, a son of Stephen and Hannah (Wade) Wilmarth, and was born near Providence, R. I. There were 13 children in the family, eight sons and five daughters. The Ogle county man's twin son, Albert, died at the age of 20.

The family moved to Kishwaukee, south of Rockford, in 1855. He enlisted with the Union army at Rockford, on Aug. 7, 1862, as a member of the 74th Illinois Infantry, and was discharged on July 3, 1865.

He participated in the battles of Mission Ridge, Lookout Mountain, Murfreesboro, Stone River, and Prairieville, Ky. The Prairieville engagement was a three-day battle. "It wasn't much fun sleeping in the snow, with no blanket under me or over me," the veteran recalls.

Voted For Lincoln

"This is no war we're having now," he'll tell you. "It's just murder." Abraham Lincoln was the first man for whom he cast a presidential ballot, and he considers the Civil war president "the best man that ever lived—unless it's me."

Mr. Wilmarth spent considerable time on detail work in Buffalo, N. Y., where sailors who claimed they did not belong to the United States as citizens caused much trouble. Three years ago, he attended the seventy-fifth anniversary of the Battle of Gettysburg with his granddaughter, Miss Marian Wilmarth. He also spent several days in Washington, D. C., while in the east.

After the Civil war, he claimed Miss Carrie Baldwin as his bride. They were the parents of two daughters, Mrs. Jessie Condon of Kishwaukee and Mrs. Lena Hazelton of Stillman Valley.

Some time after his first wife's death, Mr. Wilmarth was united in marriage with Miss Amelia Erxleben. They also had two children, Mrs. Nellie Corlett of Rockford.

and Earl A. Wilmarth, at whose home the veteran has resided for the past 27 years.

He has always loved children and animals, and entertains his grandchildren by the hour, telling them of the past. In addition to "little sweetheart," the aged man enjoys the companionship of his young grandson, Gene Wilmarth, son of the Earl A. Wilmarths. (Gene's mother explains that the family nickname for the youngster is "the eighth wonder of the world," because the veteran's pride in the boy is so marked.)

Operates Typewriter

The veteran's mind remains keen, and he spends part of each day, reading newspapers and magazines. He also reads numerous novels. Last year, he learned to operate a typewriter.

He believes farming is the best occupation anyone can follow. "If I had to live my life over, I'd be a farmer," he declares, and adds, "If I were a young man, I'd join the navy today." Asked if he thinks this country is well worth fighting for, he is quick to reply: "If I was 21, I'd show you!"

Injuries that he sustained in a fall while leaving his son's home for the polls to vote for Wendell

Mrs. Walgreen, who is a member of the landscape group, will show her garden pictures for the organization on Monday evening, June 16 at Starved Rock park. The program, on which Mr. Jensen is also to appear, will open a week of nature study at the park for the landscapers.

On Misunderstanding Hitler
(New York Times)
At the end of his interview with Mr. Cudahy in this morning's Times Adolf Hitler complains that he is always being misunderstood in the United States.

Time after time he has tried to emphasize that the position of Germany and his plans are not inimical to the United States, but his efforts have always proved futile.
They will always remain futile, unless we become a nation of dupes; for the utter worthlessness of Hitler's explanations and assurances and promises is written in his record. This is the man who solemnly declared that "Germany has neither the wish nor the intention to mix in internal Austrian affairs or to annex or unite with Austria"—and then annexed it. This is the man who promised that once the Sudeten question was solved "there will be no further territorial problems in Europe for Germany"—and who then marched his army into Prague. This is the man who declared that an agreement of his own making with Poland would "bring about lasting and continuous pacification"—and who then fell upon and butchered and dismembered Poland. This is the man who gave the most explicit possible assurances that his plans were "not inimical" to Norway, to Denmark, to Holland and to Belgium—and who then robbed them of their freedom.
It is no news that his present plans are "not inimical" to the United States. He is always the best friend of the next nation on his list for plunder.

FOOTSTEPS IN THE FOG
BY ELINORE COWAN STONE

YESTERDAY: Lonely for Stephan, Deborah watches fog sweep in from the sea. Then, suddenly, Stephan returns. Bridget makes arrangements for him to remain, addresses him as "Antoin." Stephan is puzzled. "How did Bridget know?"

ANGELA ISSUES A WARNING
CHAPTER VI
SO this was the way it was to be—just as it had always been—walls between them. . . . Well, if that was what Stephan wanted, she could play that way, too.
Deborah moved nervously about the room, turning on lamps, lowering shades.
"Technically, of course," she heard herself rambling on, hating the bright bliteness of her own voice—"I'm the head of this house; but if you hadn't clicked with Bridget, you would have been put in 'The Master's room' over her dead body. Mere civilians get parked elsewhere."
He listened to her, laughing a little at first. At length he came and stood looking down at her, his eyes troubled.
"Deborah," he said gently, "you're somehow—not like yourself. What is the trouble?"
If only he would not stand there, so very near that she was conscious in every fiber of his nearness!
I can't let him hurt me—like that—again, Deborah thought. He doesn't intend to; but he somehow makes a gesture, a few words that mean—just nothing—seem to mean so much.
DEBORAH was almost glad when the front door opened, and Angie came in—as Angie was likely to do at any time—without the formality of ringing.
"The fog's so thick you could cut it into pieces and fry it," Angie called from the hallway. "Debby, may I borrow your last copy of 'The World by the Week'? Mine's—"
Strolling into the room, stripping from her head the bright handkerchief she wore, she stopped short at sight of Stephan.
"Well! Welcome to our city!" she cried.
While Deborah went to hunt through the periodical rack, she heard Angela explaining briskly, "I like my news predigested and at least a week old. Mr. von Thalmann. By that time it's history, and there's no use tearing your hair over it."
"You'd tear your hair over the Old Testament, Angie," Deborah threw over her shoulder, "that is, if you ever took the trouble to read it."
"Perhaps I shall some time—if

Thirty Seconds of Destruction
Count thirty seconds—one-half of a minute.
In that insignificant length of time fire destroyed $285 worth of property somewhere in the United States. In that time, fire attacked someone's home, someone's store, someone's factory, endangering life and irreplaceable possessions. And during each half minute of every day, seven days a week, 365 days a year, fire will continue to destroy $285 worth of property unless we do something about it.
No one should say that he doesn't know what to do. Basic fire prevention is simplicity itself. The National Board of Fire Underwriters recently laid down the rules for a successful fire prevention campaign in a few words when it said: "Look around you! Burn that rubbish! Stamp out that cigaret before you throw it away! Keep gasoline out of the house! Fight fire—before it starts!"
Fire, believe it or not, has killed more Americans than all the wars in our history. And fire, today, is even more dangerous than in normal times. Fire menaces the defense effort. Fire in a key factory may stop the production of essential parts for days and weeks. And fire, at all times, wastes materials, labor, energies—and that most precious of elements, time.
Those institutions whose job is fighting fire are redoubling their efforts. The National Board, for instance, is using its full facilities, without charge, to help the Army and Navy departments prevent fire in army camps, navy yards, munitions plants, etc. It is carrying on an aggressive, 24-hour-a-day fight against the saboteur. But, vital as this work is, it is not enough. Every American must help if fire is to be defeated. And that means you!

What's the Answer?
Endless statistics can be cited to "prove" that a defense boom created by government spending is not ending the need for government spending on relief for the unemployed.
The country's industrial production is now far above the 1929 mark. But it is argued that machines have made it possible for fewer workers to produce more; that the "working population" has increased by some 600,000 each year; and so, while only about a million persons were unemployed in 1929, there are now more than 6,500,000.
There are specific situations where that argument seems very difficult to apply; for instance, the situation in Allegheny County (Pittsburgh) in Pennsylvania. That county's total population gain, from 1930 to 1940, is shown by the census as only 33,160. The increase of "working population" must be less.
Yet the Pittsburgh Press reports that 50,000 more persons than in 1929 are now on private payrolls, earning $10,000,000 a month more. There would seem to be less need for relief in that county than there was in 1929. But whereas in 1929 there was practically no governmental relief—no WPA and no other Federal relief—in early May, this year, there were 14,432 persons on WPA and 23,400 cases on local direct relief.

Washington, June 6.—The government's warning of prospects for gasolineless Sundays and restricted heating next winter has aroused the inquisitiveness of congressmen as to why this should be so.
The first smitch of inquisitiveness will disclose that the oil companies transferred 32 tankers of 200,000 tons to Panama and Venezuela registry immediately after the outbreak of the war. The current shortage of tankers, which is supposed to be the cause of the prospective trouble, is estimated at only 139,000 tons for the third quarter of this year beginning July 1. The suggestion will soon come from congress that the dire shortage could be cured by a recovery of these ships.
No one seems to know exactly what the ships are doing under their fake registry, but the charge that they are carrying oil and gas to the ether end of the axis in Japan and Russia is being investigated.

Assistant State Secretary Dean Acheson put an administration clamp upon the house resolution proposing to air the little ways in which this government is inadvertently aiding the axis. He told a secret session of the house rules committee such material could only furnish embarrassing publicity and accomplish no good.
Much of the information has long been available—such things as gold purchases from Russia, at the premium price and the shipment of oil to Japan. The Japanese are supposed to be operating 16 tankers a day out of the west coast. In January the Japanese took about one-third of our gasoline exports and in February more than one-half. Oil company manufacturers rightly say there is nothing they can do as long as the state department declines to embargo such shipments.
The situation will shortly be corrected.

The Fort Riley Commandant, Brigadier General Rodgers, reviewed mechanized troops there and said they were pitiful—not anti-aircraft or machine guns, not even rifles. They had better not let General Rodgers see the other mechanized troops (outside of Fort Knox where the school is reputed to be efficiently equipped).
Do you know how many medium (usable) tanks will be obtained by the army in June—exactly 4. Not until the end of August will they be getting 25 to 30 a month. By August 1 the defense program will have produced 550 light tanks (usable against nazi tanks), of which 164 will have gone to the British.
But the question is how good are the new mediums. Their main guns are on the side, which limits their field of fire. Neither in speed nor armor do they measure up to the best of the Germans.
These are the M-3's. An excellent M-4 model is on the way, but so far has not progressed beyond the plastic model stage.
The fact that Brigadier General Riley and the other commanders realize these deficiencies is the best possible indication that they will be corrected.

Commencement for 178 Graduates of High School Friday

Graduation Completed in Exercises at High School Building
Evaluating life according to the concepts of the scientist, the educator and the moralist, the Rev. Axel G. Pearson of Moline told 178 graduates here last night that the more views and ideas an individual has, the wider will be his world.
Dr. Pearson, pastor of the Bethel Methodist church in Moline, charged the graduates to estimate their own value with physical and mental yardsticks and to add to these the value of character.
Last night's graduation exercises for the Dixon high school Class of '41 were attended by relatives and friends of the students who filled the auditorium to capacity. As the graduates filed into the auditorium the high school orchestra, led by Orville Westgar, played the processional.
The Rev. George D. Nielsen of the Grace Evangelical church pronounced the invocation.
A mixed octet of his school students sang "Go, Lovely Rose" by Thimian and "Deep River", arranged by Burleigh.
Two Valedictorians, senior girl valedictorian, spoke on the subject of "Youth Looks at Tomorrow" in which she declared that the graduates are ready to accept their new problems. These problems she cited as those of marriage, social adjustment, employment, recreation, war and peace.
The subject "Defense Morale" was selected by Don Valle, senior boy valedictorian, who declared that "society has the right to expect us to assume the responsibilities of state and national affairs". "Attainment", he said "is in proportion to understanding, action, ambition, intelligence and sympathetic understanding". He outlined his concept of the ideal citizen as one filled with tolerance, a social justice and a will to preserve the benefits and merits of democracy.
Superintendent of Schools A. H. Lancaster presented the diplomas to the 178 graduates and the Rev. C. L. Wagner of the Immanuel Lutheran church pronounced the benediction.

Glamor Boy of Jockeys Says There Is No Secret About Riding Horses

New York.—(The Special News Service)—If you think there's any secret about riding a race horse, Eddie Arcaro tells you to forget about it right now.

Eddie ought to know. He's the glamor boy of all those little men who are there when they spring the barrier and the gallant gallopers come out a-running. Around any race track, they'll tell you the swarthy slim Italian from the Blue Grass horse country is top man among these little fellows, that he can speak a horse's language and can make the thoroughbreds do things even when they don't want to.

And Eddie's explanation for the difference between good and bad riding is just one word—"Judgment."

"You sit on a horse," he tells you, "and either you just know what to do, when to do it, and how, or you don't. That's all there is to it."

A Class Jockey

Yet, you can take Eddie's word for it. Ever since he came down the pike to take his spot on what the trade calls the "big apple" ten years ago, he has been recognized as a class jockey. Just recall that Mrs. Payne Whitney, the "First Lady of the American Turf," has had Eddie as her contract rider for seven years. In that period, he has averaged 125 winning mounts a year.

A list of the horses he has ridden in the past five or six years is like a blue book of racing society. There were Lawrin and Whirlaway in the Derby, and Challedon in the Pimlico Special of 1939, the day Challedon's big boy gave one of the most thrilling racing performances of all time. There was Moland and Hash and Third Degree and Our Boots.

This year, when Trainer Ben Jones, the Missouri Magician, realized he was going to need an extra-special boy for Whirlaway in the Derby and Preakness, he sent out an SOS for Eddie.

"He's the top boy around," Ben said. Just to prove it, Arcaro booted the Kentucky cannonball home by eight lengths in the fast-debby of them all, and followed it up with a five-length triumph in the Preakness. And Whirlaway, who had run as fast as a crooked—as a lightning streak before that, never once got off a straight line in either race.

You talk to Arcaro, provided he's in the right mood, and he immediately sets you right on one thing about himself.

Not Born in Kentucky

"I was not born in Kentucky as all the record books say," he explains. "I arrived one morning in Cincinnati, and it wasn't until I was a year or so old that my folks took me over to Newport, Ky. I was brought up there."

This was only five miles from Latonia, so it was only natural that Arcaro should wind up among horses. But before he finally got to that point, he took a crack at baseball, football, and just about every other sport first.

"I liked 'em, but they didn't like me," he said. "I was too little, so I tried my hand at the jockey business."

He worked first for the veteran trainer, T. H. McCaffrey at Keeneland, and then C. E. Davidson handled him. He credits Davidson with doing more than any one else to aid his development.

After serving around Kentucky for a time, little Eddie went to Agua Caliente, where he rode his first winner. This was an old mare tagged Eagle Bird, and she bounced in for Eddie nine years ago, when he was a 16-year old.

He worked first for the veteran trainer, T. H. McCaffrey at Keeneland, and then C. E. Davidson handled him. He credits Davidson with doing more than any one else to aid his development.

MONDAY NIGHT'S GAMES

(Postponed Tills)
Brookville vs. Tony's Ranch.
Smith Oils vs. Polo Garment.

The standings of the Polo softball league are just as uncertain and changeable as a barometric needle in a wind storm and a mere puff of the breeze or a drip of rain and the whole thing maybe washed into a new pattern.

Once again last night the circuit endeavored to get two games out of its system, with the result that once more the nightcap affair (Polo Garment vs. Cooper's) was frightened by the drizzle.

Peats club, the only team which has been able to play two games, has won each and now stands as current leader of the loop. Last night the Peats whipped the Smith Oils in a 12 to 11 slugfest.

The winners took the lead with four runs in the first inning and scored seven more in the second and one in the third before ending the spree. The Smith hacked away at the score with one run in the second, four in the third, three in the fourth, one in the sixth and two in the seventh. The climb to a threat was the feature of the game.

Leading the sluggers was Pierce of the winners who collected three hits in four trips to the plate. Smith, also of the winners, clouted a home run in the second inning with two aboard.

Gaylor was the winning pitcher. He allowed 11 hits, struck out two, and walked two. Cannon was on the mound for the Smith Oils and he was rapped for nine hits, walked two and struck out two.

INDIANA TRACK TEAM WINS CENTRAL COLLEGIATE TITLE

Milwaukee, June 7.—(AP)—Indiana's Big Ten track championship team, paced by brilliant distance runner and a husky field performer, gained another title last night—the Central Collegiate conference at Marquette university stadium.

Campbell Kane, who won the mile and 880 yard races, and Archie Harris, Giant Negro who captured the discus and shotput crowns, scored nearly half of Indiana's winning 42 points. Indiana had five firsts, three seconds, one third and three fifths.

Notre Dame, figured to give the Hoosiers a run for honors, took only one first, a tie for top with three others in the high jump, but placed enough other men to win second honors, 28½ points, which nosed out Wisconsin with 23 2½. Marquette, the defending champion, was fourth with 14 2½, Michigan State was fifth with 13 2½, and Michigan Normal sixth with 13.

Only one meet was broken, that when Harris threw the discus 173 feet, 7 7/8 inches. His mark in the shotput was 50 feet, 4 3/4 inches. He was defending meet champion in both events and broke his own record in the discus.

The only other double winner was Leo Tarrant, Negro sprinter, of Alabama State Teachers college, Montgomery, Ala., who took the 100 and 220 yard dashes without much competition.

Kane was voted the outstanding athlete of the meet and was awarded the John P. Nicholson trophy. Harris won it last year. Indiana won the Knute K. Rockne Memorial trophy.

A crowd of 6,000 witnessed the 16th annual meet.

RECOMMENDS REMATCH

Chicago—Joseph Triner, president of the National Boxing Association, recommends a rematch between Petey Scalzo and Phil Zwick. Referee gave their Milwaukee fight to Scalzo. The Wisconsin commission reversed the decision and called it a draw.

VANDER MEER IS SET FOR SUCCESS

By JUDSON BAILEY

Associated Press Sports Writer

There doesn't seem to be any question that this is going to be the best year for Johnny Vander Meer since he reached his double no-hit pinnacle in 1938.

In fact, he may better his season's record of that year, even if doesn't match its artistic success.

He pitched a one-hit game last night in shutting out the Philadelphia Phillies 7-0 for the World Champion Cincinnati Reds. The only hit against him came in the second inning when Danny Littwhiler beat out an infield smash to Shortstop Eddie Joost. He fanned 12, allowed but two men to reach first and retired the last 23 batters in order.

In his best year Vander Meer won 15 games, and since he already has achieved five victories, he has a good chance to improve on that mark this summer.

11-Hit Offensive

The Reds backed up Vandy last night with an 11-hit offensive. Chuck Aleno hit a homer, Frank McCormick singled with the bases loaded and Ernie Lombardi smacked two doubles for three runs.

Kirby Higbe, the $100,000 question mark of the Brooklyn Dodgers, also proved last night that the investment in him was a sound one. He held the Chicago Cubs to four hits and socked a double himself for two runs in a sixth inning rally that won the game 4-1 and maintained Brooklyn's half game lead in the National League.

It was Higbe's sixth victory against three defeats and he flashed an impressive fast ball that baffled the Bruins.

Yesterday was quite a day for pitchers.

Bob Feller chalked up his 12th triumph as the Cleveland Indians shut out the onrushing Philadelphia Athletics 2-0. He allowed just four hits, struck out 11 and for the second time in his entire career, did not issue a base on balls. This was Feller's fourth victory since his fellow pitchers have won even one game—his pitching standing off what might have been a 12-game losing streak for the American League leaders.

Challenging Spot

Lon Warneke kept the St. Louis Cardinals in a challenging spot in the senior circuit with a six-hit performance that beat the Boston Braves 3-1.

The Pittsburgh Pirates captured a double-header from the New York Giants, 5-4 and 4-3 with Max Buther spacing six hits for his fourth straight victory in the first game and Truett (Rip) Sewell allowing just five in the nightcap, besides setting a new National League fielding record for pitchers by handling 12 chances flawlessly. He had 11 assists, three in one inning, tying two records.

Home runs provided the Boston Red Sox with all their scores in a 6-3 decision over the Chicago White Sox. Jim Fox hit one with two on, Ted Williams one with one on and Jim Tabor one with the bases empty.

The Detroit Tigers spotted the Washington Senators a seven run lead, six in the second inning, and then tallied seven times themselves in one frame to win 11-8 and give Schoolboy Rowe credit for the triumph in a relief role.

ARMY CALLS RISK

Notre Dame — Eddie Riska, Notre Dame's basketball captain last season, will probably be kept from a professional career by the selective service act. Riska was leading Irish scorer for three campaigns.

Bob Feller May Get Army Call In Late August

Cleveland, June 7.—(AP)—Order No. 2,857, baseball's No. 1 pitcher, looked in the mailbox today for a selective service questionnaire addressed to Robert William Andrew Feller and averred he would be ready for the call—which may come in late August.

"I don't expect to ask for deferment—after all, why should I?" he said when he heard the news. "Everybody has to do his duty, and if they call me I'll do the best I can."

What branch of the service? "It doesn't matter, and anyway that's something to take up later," he said.

He wouldn't predict the pennant chances of the Indians, who can thank Feller's right arm for their continuance in first place, but admitted he "would like to be in the World Series. But it's all the same to me whether they call me one time or another."

No Reluctance

But there was no tone of reluctance in his voice, and C. C. Slapnicka, Tribe vice president, commented that "he's really tickled to death at the chance. If we were in the war, he would not have to be drafted, because he would enlist."

Slapnicka said the club would not seek Feller's deferment, but he'll be a big loss to us and to the whole American League."

How much the $45,000-a-year Feller means to the Indians was demonstrated vividly yesterday when he shut out the invigorated Athletics, 2 to 0, walking none and allowing four hits. It was his fourth victory since his staff-mates last won a game on May 24, his fourth shutout and 12th win of the season. His 11 strikeouts ran his 1941 total in that department to 101.

PLAYGROUND PROGRAMS TO BEGIN MONDAY

School's out—and the fun begins for the children on the city! On Monday the Dixon Park District's supervised playgrounds will open their gates the younger generation thus beginning a program of various activities.

Miss Mary Tromboid, a member of the Lincoln school faculty, heads the program this year and today announced that children should go to the parks nearest their home Monday morning at 9 o'clock to participate in the opening day's events.

Assisting Miss Tromboid this year is John Jensen, Jr., a student at Drake university who made an outstanding record in high school athletics here. Others on the staff include Miss Lorraine Giannoni, Miss Betty Reilly, Laura Williams and Sylvia Heckman.

Miss Giannoni will give dramatic instructions, a field in which she is experienced through former work on playgrounds in previous years. Mr. Jensen will organize city playground sports teams.

Defeated France

Britain, France and Germany. In that order, conferred with Foreign Minister Matsukata.

The Italian ambassador also appeared, but he talked only to the head of the foreign office. European section. The visits of the French, German and Italian ambassadors were related mainly to United States foreign policy.

South Africans in Egypt
British South African troops, rushed from their mop-up in Ethiopia, took stations in Egypt today for the steadily-developing battle for the Suez canal, which the British apparently still are confident they can hold despite reported German infiltration into Syria.

United States Ambassador
John G. Winant, home from London, was said authoritatively to have told Vice President Wallace and senate leaders in Washington that the British believed they had enough men and equipment in Africa to meet the German drive on equal terms, and that they were hopeful of keeping the Mediterranean out of axis control.

The South African forces were rushed into the defense line to the west, guarding Egypt from the axis thrust from the Libyan desert, but danger loomed steadily greater from the east as well. Reports last night from Turkish pictured the Germans as sending a steady stream of pilots and ground crew men into French-mandated Syria where advance striking bases for the luftwaffe were said to be shaping up at the port of Latakia and inland airfields.

French Issue Note
A French government press note issued last night after a Vichy cabinet session shunted off the reports that Germans were making Syria a military base and declared, instead, the British were planning an attack there.

"The situation seems quite confused", the note said, "but it remains that English propaganda would like to have it believed that German troops have arrived in Syria, to justify—perhaps—British military action against that country."

Grew Attacks Germany
While Winant was talking with government leaders in Washington, another U. S. ambassador, Joseph C. Grew, declared in Tokyo the Germans want no just peace, and that the United States may have to get into the war eventually to preserve the American way of life.

Grew told a group of church workers that Germany has "prepared the way and set into motion" five wars in the past 75 years, and added:
"The conclusion is patent that the German empire as now constituted is not satisfied with a just peace and equitable world order, and that preparation for the waging of war is one of her fundamental concepts of life."

"One can not temporize with cancer—it must be wholly cut out or rendered wholly impotent down to the last cell lest it engulf the whole body and contaminate both the heart and soul. It already has contaminated the heart of several countries. It already has contaminated the soul of Germany."

ment when the British Mediterranean position is in peril, when the battle of the Atlantic is touch and go, and when the American aid program is still gathering strength.

It would not even be surprising to see Moscow enlisted in a subsequent German peace offensive carefully disguised, of course. Sir Stafford Cripps, the British ambassador to Moscow who is returning to London shortly may have something to tell Winston Churchill about this.

Yet Hitler cannot have any confidence of getting Churchill to listen to any peace terms—his real chance lies in fomenting British disunity by talk of peace and understanding the British prime minister. It is intriguing to speculate on the part to which Rudolf Hess may have been assigned in such an undertaking.

The British and their friends, however, have certain reasons to be thankful for this false twilight phase, so long as they see clearly and act decisively to prepare for what is to follow. So it is heartening for them to read today that South African troops, seasoned and hardy, stand now in Egypt's western desert to reinforce the Army of the Nile and to pit their brawn against the axis spear that threatens Suez.

man lives, but enough for Peggy Lou.

In February, 1938, Leide decided to enter the university, and he and his dog came to Champaign.

Led Unfalteringly
The University of Illinois campus is one of the largest, and its walks and buildings are crowded with 12,000 students hurrying to and from classes. Peggy Lou, however, easily became accustomed to campus life. Shown the way once, she unfalteringly led her blind master to class rooms all over the campus. She was the first dog to be admitted to the university.

"You're a record anyone should be very proud of," Leide was told as he prepared for graduation, but he declared that Peggy Lou had furnished the inspiration.
"When you follow a dog around every day, confident that every move she makes is perfect, you think it's a reflection on your own intelligence if you can't do a pretty good job yourself. After all, men call dogs dumb animals," he said.

happy, and point with pride, to the fact that our organization has never during my term, had these elements to combat.

"Many times I have been approached and have received the thanks of the men whom our club has been most helpful in electing to their respective offices. Each time I have referred their thanks to you as a group, for certainly each of you are deserving of the credit and not the chairman. The duty of a chairman is not to accept the plaudits that may be tendered to an organization, but rather to help and to guide that organization so that they may be in a position to accept those thanks which they have earned. It is with this thought in mind that I have acted as your chairman and I sincerely hope that in some small way I have been helpful.

"Time nor space does not permit me to thank each of you members of the Young Republican Club personally for your splendid cooperation, your unchallenged loyalty and your tireless efforts in behalf of the cause for which we are united. However, to the officers, the executive committee, the organization committee, under the astute direction of Harry Herbst, the program committee headed by Kenneth Abbott, to the members of the Lee County Central Committee, the Lee County officers, to the county newspaper and to Mr. H. C. Warner, chairman of the Lee County Central Committee, I wish to express my very sincere and heartfelt thanks for making my job as chairman a happy and pleasant experience and for making possible many advantages of which we were able to avail ourselves.

"The time has come for you to make a choice of new officers for the coming year. I can say without hesitancy that your choice will be wise and far-sighted, for upon these officers will fall the effort of guiding our organization into the future, which I am sure will be even more successful than the past.

"In stepping down from the chairmanship I, once again, want to thank each of you from the bottom of my heart for your loyalty and cooperation. Also, I want each of you to feel free to call upon me if I may, in any manner, be of help to you.

"In closing I wish to extend to you all my heartiest thanks and to express my best wish for your continued success."

Hope for Sunny Skies for Scout June Garden Tour

Dixon Girl Scouts are placing an advance order with the weather man for sunny skies on Sunday afternoon, June 15, when the troops and council members will be entertaining with a June Garden Walk. Nine or more of Dixon's loveliest gardens will be open to visitors for the occasion, planned to raise funds for erection of a recreation hall at Camp John Ralston.

The Senior troop and Troop Three, high school freshmen, will be working individually or in groups wherever needed, during the course of the tour. They will receive assignments at the George Beier residence, "Beiercliff," at 12:45 p. m.

The Sophomores of Troop No. 13 will have charge of a frappe table and an exhibition of the three homes at the Charles R. Walgreen estate, "Hazelwood." June Harriage heads this group, whose plans will be completed at a Monday afternoon meeting in the Loveland Community House.

Troop No. 10, composed of juniors, will be in charge of the swimming pool at Mrs. John Ralston's estate, "Reynoldswood," with Helen Boyd as general chairman. Jane Goff is arranging a swimming exhibition, and the girls also promise to dive for coins. In addition to girls of Troop Ten, all Scouts with a Junior Life-saving badge are asked to notify Jane and arrange to participate in the program at the pool.

The senior troop, No. 1, will preside at the refreshment table at "Reynoldswood." These girls will complete their plans some afternoon next week, when they are to be guests of Mrs. Ralston.

Plans for the intermediate troop will be announced later.

He frequently went hunting and fishing in former years, and can remember when immense flocks of prairie chickens literally blackened the Ogle county sky in the vicinity of Oregon.

Open House
Open house will be held for the aged man at the Earl A. Wilmarth farm home on his anniversary. On Sunday, June 22, Mrs. Jesse Condon, a daughter, will entertain with a family party at his old home at Kishwaukee.

Among those coming from a distance for the celebration will be Lonjeana's mother, Mrs. Marvin Gunn, who is due to reach Oregon from the west coast about June 15. All of the veteran's 19 great-grandchildren are also expected to be present.

The Civil war veteran is probably the second-oldest resident of Ogle county. The oldest is Mrs. Margaret Ellen Hiestand of Leaf River, who will be 102 on Oct. 11.

The customary three-month vacation period during the months of July, August, and September will be observed by the Mount Morris Women's club, but at the June meeting of the group which was a scramble supper held at the home of Mrs. O. A. Hanke Monday evening serious consideration was given to plans for the ensuing year's work.

From the brief reports of the forty-sixth annual convention of the Illinois Federation of Women's club, held at Hotel Sherman, Chicago, May 12-15, as given by their president, Mrs. Carroll Boston, and other club delegates, Mrs. Etta Rittenhouse, much was learned of the Federation's theme, "We shall never lose our freedom as long as we remain united." Highlights of the various addresses and tours were covered and the recommendation of the retiring president, Mrs. William T. Bruckner, that the numerous departments of work be consolidated and concentrate on fewer departments was well received.

In the press and publicity department, the scrapbook of the Mount Morris club which had been awarded first place in the thirteenth district in the group for clubs ranging from fifty to one hundred members was given second place in the state contest in this particular classification. Mrs. F. B. Curley served the past year as chairman of the local press and publicity department, and will be assisted next year by Miss Dorothy Niman as scrapbook chairman.

Announcement was made that Mrs. John Blakley has been appointed as chairman of Indian Welfare for the thirteenth district. Mrs. Paul Yoe is continuing as radio chairman for this same district.

When at the close of the evening's business session Mrs. Boston announced the membership of the standing committees she called attention to the fact that the board had kept in mind the recommendation of the outgoing state president and had listed fewer departments of work with only one member responsible for each. The following appointments for the 1941-1942 season have been made:

Standing Committees
Program—Miss Mary Wishard, chairman; Mrs. Worthington Thomas, Mrs. Harold Ross, Mrs. Hugh Felker, Mrs. Harold Marcott, Mrs. H. G. Kable, and Miss Dorothy Savage.

Green Makes Position Clear on His Budget

Springfield, Ill., June 7.—(AP)—Governor Green made it clear Friday he was ready to use his veto power if necessary to keep legislative appropriation bills within his $497,000,000 state budget for 1941-43.

Commenting in a press conference on the state senate's passage of a University of Illinois biennial appropriation of $17,705,000, or about $238,000 in excess of the budget figure, the governor declared "I think the bill should be kept within the budget" and confirmed earlier reports he had threatened to veto the higher amount. The bill remains to be considered by the house.

The governor also said pending further study he did not know where the state would find additional revenue to permit appropriation of $1,246,000 to pay officers and men of the state reserve militia, as proposed in a bill introduced jointly by 40 state senators. The governor did not, however, place himself on record as definitely opposed to that appropriation.

Released from Pastorate

The members and friends of the Methodist church were greatly shocked Sunday evening, when after the organ recital Rev. Dreger asked his official board to release him from pastorate of the church as he wishes to accept a pastorate in California. When Rev. and Mrs. Dreger entered the ministry it was their hope that they might sometime locate in California, as her parents reside in Eureka in the northern part of the state. Two and a half years ago Rev. Dreger received a call from a large congregation, but refused it on account of his promise to the district superintendent and the local churches. It will be remembered that Rev. Dreger came here as its first student pastor, promising to remain with the congregation for three years. He has remained for nearly four years. He plans to join at once the California Methodist Conference which is or soon will be in session. Both Rev. and Mrs. Dreger are graduates of Wheaton college and after his graduation in 1935, he took up his studies at Garrett Biblical Institute, graduating in 1938. He took his master's degree at Northwestern university, graduating in 1939, and that fall was ordained when the conference met at St. James church in Chicago. He was received into the conference as a full member last fall at the 100th anniversary session at Freeport.

Rev. and Mrs. Dreger have many warm friends both here and in Ashton who will regret to see them leave. They were both very popular among members of the church and outside the church. They most certainly have worked earnestly and sincerely for the betterment of the church. During his ministry new pipe organs and new chancela have been installed in both churches.

Rev. Dreger has received a call from a church in the Fresno district of the California conference. He will preach his farewell sermon Sunday morning, June 15, and that afternoon they will motor to Sterling to spend the night with Rev. and Mrs. Harold Olson and family and will leave on their journey Monday morning. The best wishes of a host of friends will go with them.

program suitable for this wonderful occasion.

"It is a pleasure to realize that that good old Dixon hospitality has extended a cordial invitation to all the Dixon people, and also to all the old timers to join hands in celebrating this event of events. And it is certain that all the efforts on the part of the Homecoming committee is an endeavor to present the people with such a fine program, is and always has been highly appreciated by all who have witnessed a Homecoming celebration.

Real Hospitality

"As to hospitality—when you see that the Dixon Elks have so willingly surrendered their lovely rooms for headquarters for this very excellent occasion, you realize that it must be that hospitality found only in Dixon.

"I am glad to hear of your very fine and entertaining program, with the merry-go-round, contests, concessions and fine bands, and last but by no means not least, your fine display of fireworks. I want to assure you that myself and family appreciate your kind invitation to join in your grand Fourth of July Homecoming celebration."

The writer enclosed a song of his own composition to be sung to the tune, "The Grand Old Flag," which follows:

"Here's to good old Dixon, A town that needs no fixin', She's as good as she can be, 'Where everybody's smilin', And happy all the while in This land of liberty.

"Where everybody greets you Every time they chance to meet you And they shake you by the hand, 'It's your town, it's my town, It's a great do or die town, With a feeling that you understand."

"She's a grand old town, Tho she be up or down And she welcomes you home every year.

"She's the city of good friendship And lone and your returning Fills her heart full of cheer.

"Every heart beats true To good old Dixon and you As she stands here for her rights Should old acquaintance be forgotten.

"Dixon welcomes you Dixonites."

"(I would like to dedicate this song to the occasion to be sung in a community singing every year, in that we would always do a little something to help the Fourth of July Homecoming entertainments.)"
